Why is this your “Career” Game-Changer???

Shelf-life of Skills

Skills evolve rapidly, making continuous upskilling essential. Train-the-Trainer programs help trainers, instructional designers, and L&D professionals stay current, deliver impactful learning experiences, and remain relevant in a changing workplace.

Art of Engagement

Delivering effective and engaging employee training is an art and a science. Training is a process that begins well before the training course itself and extends beyond the close of it.

Choosing the right Facilitator

The success of a Train-the-Trainer program depends on the right facilitator—someone with subject expertise, training experience, strong communication and leadership skills, patience, passion, active listening, and emotional intelligence.

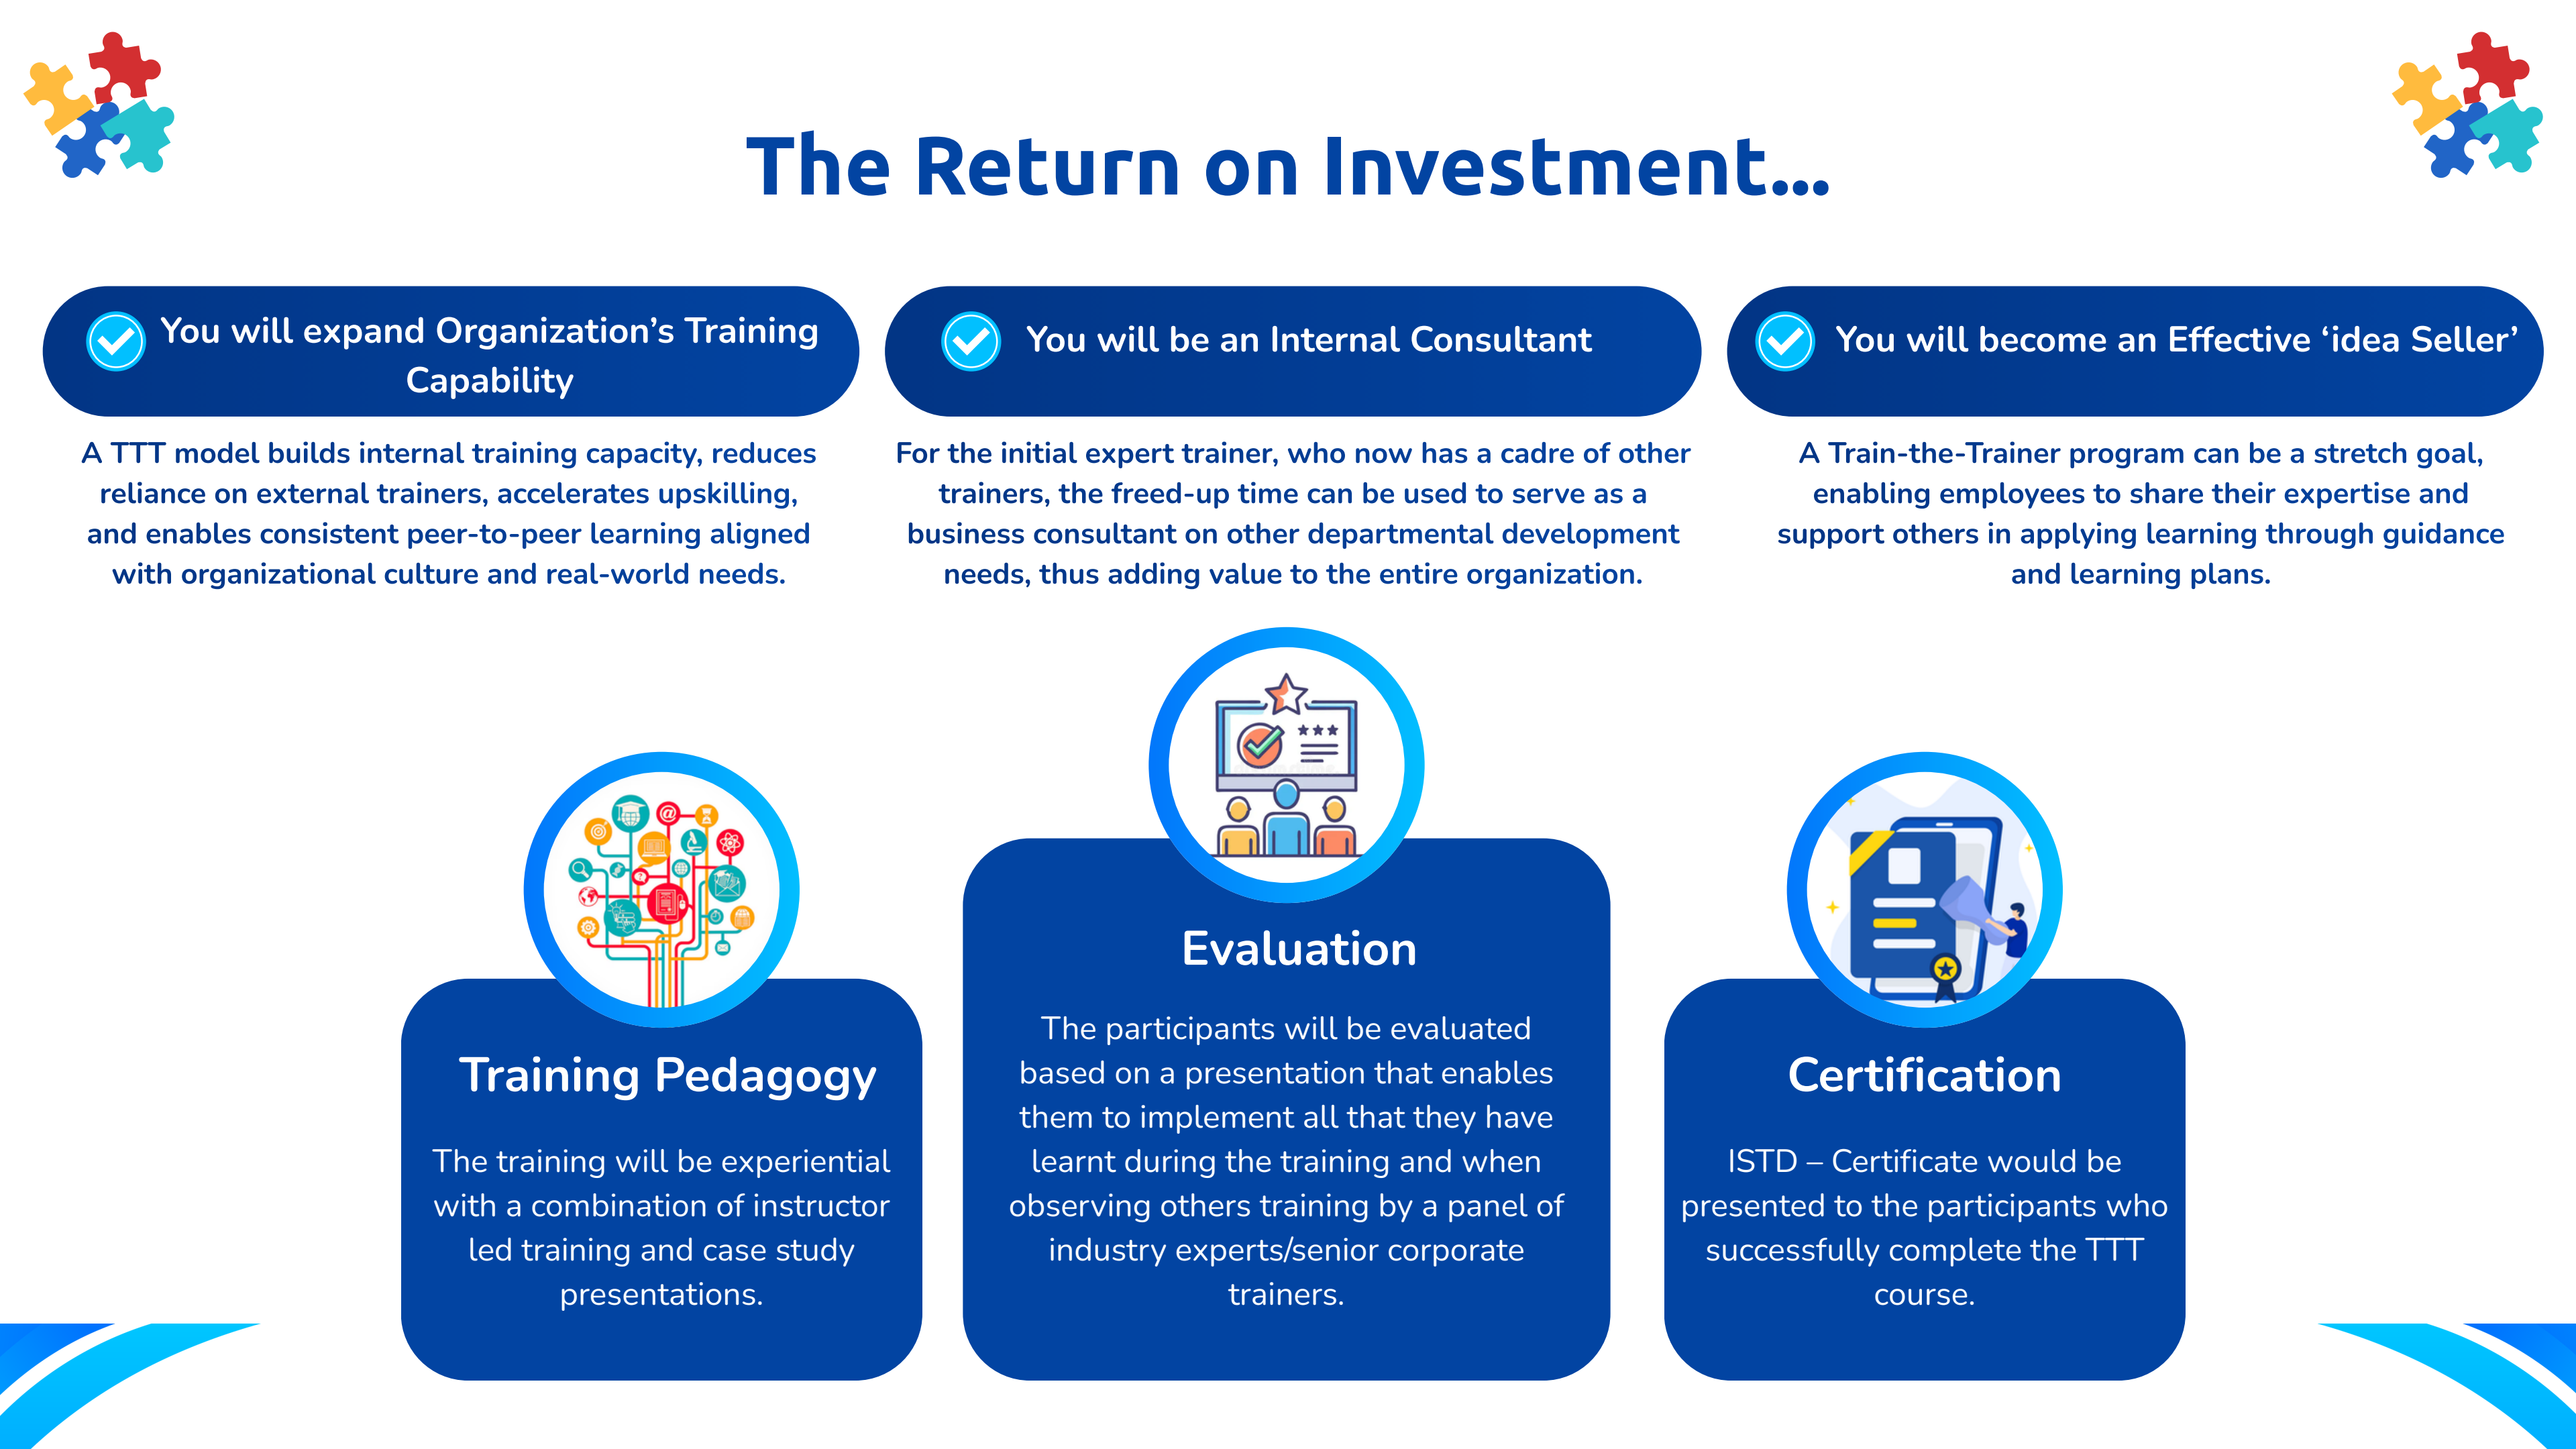

Adult Learning principles

Trainers need more than subject expertise—they must understand adult learning, engage learners effectively, and leverage technology to create impactful learning experiences.

Impactful designing

Effective Train-the-Trainer programs go beyond course content. Lasting behavior change depends on learner relevance, manager support, opportunities to practice, and alignment with organizational goals.

About the Trainer

A highly experienced leadership coach, facilitator, and Learning & Development professional with over 30 years of experience across leadership development, executive coaching, organizational effectiveness, operational excellence, and talent development. A Certified PCC from the International Coaching Federation (ICF) and a Certified Global Leadership and Global Team Coach, with additional credentials including HRMP, Harrison Assessment, MBTI, DISC, Six Sigma Green Belt, PMP, SHL Assessment & Development Centre, Thomas International TEIQ EQ Assessment, Belbin Team Roles, and Hofstede Cultural Ambassador. Has extensive experience coaching senior leaders, middle and junior managers on performance improvement, executive decision-making, leadership effectiveness, change management, and workplace challenges.

Has held senior leadership roles including CEO of Avantgarde Management Consultancy Services and Head of Learning & Development and Operational Excellence at Tube Investments of India, with professional experience across Deloitte Consulting India, Sterling Holiday Resorts, Madras Cements, and the National Productivity Council. Passionate about enabling people to succeed, with particular strengths in learning, intellectual curiosity, knowledge sharing, harmony, and achievement. Has also contributed to the professional community through publications, white papers, seminars, and content on Kaizen, 5S, TQM, CRM, coaching, and workplace effectiveness. Actively supports social causes through pro-bono coaching and facilitation for educational institutions and NGOs, including initiatives supporting the visually challenged.
